OVERVIEW

Connor is a member of the Professional Liability Department where he concentrates his practice on public entity and civil rights litigation. He handles all manner of public risk claims including disputes involving municipalities, police departments, zoning officers, school districts, public officials, and both private and public sector employees.

Connor also has experience representing physicians, physician assistants, hospitals, and other health care providers and facilities in general and professional liability matters.

Connor was born and raised in Chester County, Pennsylvania. He graduated from the University of Delaware with a Bachelor of Arts in Public Policy and a Bachelor of Arts in Political Science and went on to earn his juris doctor from Villanova University Charles Widger School of Law with a Health Law Concentration.

During law school, Connor was an active member in several organizations, including the Honor Board, Villanova Health Law Society, Villanova Sports Law Society, and the COVID-19 Legal Research Project. He also served as a Certified Legal Intern at Villanova Law School's Interdisciplinary Mental & Physical Health Law Clinic, providing pro-bono representation on community health matters.

Prior to joining Marshall Dennehey, Connor worked at a civil litigation firm, representing clients primarily in the areas of premises, retail, and automobile liability.

Outside of work, Connor enjoys walking his dogs, spending time outdoors, and rooting for the Philadelphia sports teams.

Connor is admitted to practice law in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.
