OVERVIEW

Roman is an associate in the Casualty Department where he represents clients in matters involving premises liability, automobile liability, and general liability, drawing on his broad litigation background to evaluate risk, develop defense strategies, and guide clients through all phases of claims and litigation. Prior to joining Marshall Dennehey, he practiced with several prominent law firms in Central Florida, handling personal injury, workers' compensation, immigration, and general civil litigation.

Roman began his career as a plaintiff's attorney, where he achieved numerous successes and secured multiple six- and seven-figure settlements for his clients. After nearly a decade on the plaintiff's side, he transitioned to defense work and now uses that insight to represent trucking entities, transportation carriers, retail establishments, and other commercial clients. His keen attention to detail and practical understanding of both sides of litigation strengthen his ability to deliver precise, effective representation. Roman's keen eye for details is crucial in his quest to properly and successfully defend his clients.

Roman graduated cum laude from the University of Central Florida in 3 years. While he was there, Roman specialized in Comparative and International Law. Soon after, he attended the University of Florida Fredric G. Levin College of Law where he also graduated cum laude. While in law school, Roman specialized in Intellectual Property Law. In 2015, he received a Book Award for his performance in Admiralty and Maritime Law.

Roman is admitted to the Florida Bar and is eligible to practice in all Florida State Courts. Roman is also admitted to the Federal Middle District Court of Florida as well as the Southern District Court of Florida. Roman has held memberships with the Volusia County Bar Association, American Bar Association, Florida Justice Association, Florida Workers' Advocates, and National Organization of Veteran's Advocates.

Roman is an avid lover of cars and motorcycles. In his spare time, Roman repairs and modifies cars and motorcycles. Roman is a proud father of two and loves to spend time with friends and family.
