OVERVIEW

Lance Robinson is an attorney in the firm's Philadelphia office, where he represents construction companies and contractors, trucking companies, bars and restaurants, commercial property owners and managers, amusement parks, and insurers throughout Pennsylvania. His practice includes matters involving catastrophic injury or death in the areas of construction accidents and defects, trucking and transportation liability, liquor liability, premises liability, and sports and amusement claims. Lance also brings a strong foundation in criminal defense, which enhances his ability to assess risk, evaluate exposure, and develop effective litigation strategies.

Before joining the firm, Lance served as a Trial Attorney with the Montgomery County Public Defender's Office, representing indigent clients in matters involving Medicare fraud, access device fraud, aggravated assault, and other felony offenses. He conducted detailed client interviews, developed defense strategies, researched statutes and case law, and advocated for clients in preliminary hearings, summary trials, and pre trial conferences.

Lance previously operated his own practice, where he provided legal consultations, drafted agreements, and conducted risk based analyses for clients. He also volunteered with legal aid organizations, offering pro bono counsel and advocacy to underserved communities.

Earlier in his career, Lance spent a decade at Incyte, where he conducted more than 100 field monitoring events, collaborated with external auditors, developed annual monitoring plans, oversaw compliance investigations, and strengthened organizational risk management processes. He played a key role in enhancing the company's Compliance Risk Assessment process, helping to improve risk management strategies and reinforce regulatory compliance across the organization.

Lance earned his juris doctor from Widener University Delaware Law School, where he completed coursework in trial advocacy, interviewing and counseling, and estate planning drafting. He holds a Bachelor of Science in Accounting from Wilmington University and is admitted to practice in Pennsylvania.
